Paradeplatz

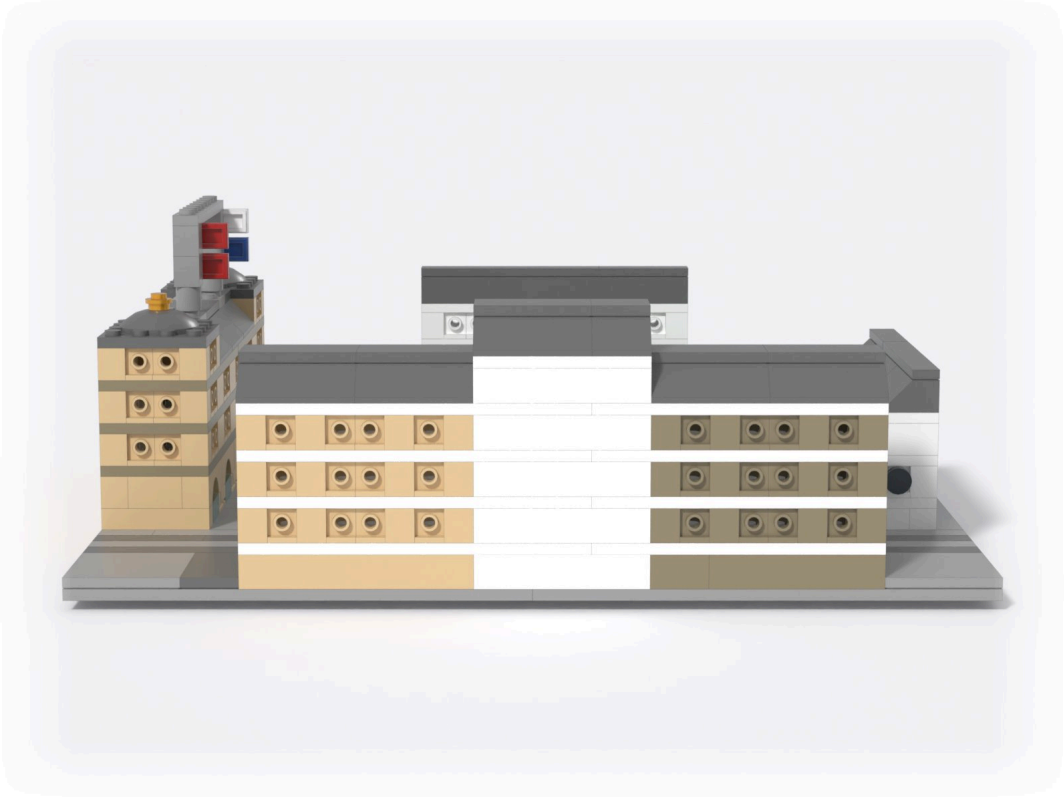
Paradeplatz is the square at the heart of Zurich's Bahnhofstrasse, where trams from all directions meet under a big flat canopy. A pig market once stood here; in the 19th century came a grand hotel, a famous confectioner and the great bank palaces that made the square a symbol of Swiss finance.

On Bahnhofstrasse in the centre of Zurich, halfway between the main station and the lake, a few steps west of St. Peter and the Fraumünster.

Name	Säumärt (pig market) until the 17th century, Neumarkt from 1819, Paradeplatz since 1865
Bank palazzo	north side, 1873 to 1876, by Jakob Friedrich Wanner, who also designed the main station hall
Hotel	east side, opened in 1838 as the city's first grand hotel
Confectioner	Sprüngli, on the south side since 1859
Trams	horse trams from 1882, electric trams from 1896, the first waiting shelter in 1928
Our model	shows the west side with period townhouses, as it looked before today's 1950s office building



The brick-built model you are about to build.

Through the centuries

until the 17th century The open space outside the town walls serves as the Säumärt, a market where pigs and other animals change hands.

1819 The square is renamed Neumarkt, the new market.

1838 Johannes Baur opens the city's first grand hotel at the east end of the square.

1859 Confiserie Sprüngli moves from the old town to the new houses on the south side.

1865 The square gets its name Paradeplatz, a nod to the city's arsenal (Zeughaus) next door.

1873 to 1876 The Kreditanstalt builds its palazzo headquarters on the north side.

1882 Three horse-tram lines cross the square; electric trams follow in 1896.

1928 The first tram waiting shelter is built in the middle of the square.

From pigs to banks

Long before it stood for money, the square was the Säumärt, the market where pigs were sold outside the town walls. Then came a hotel, a confectioner and the banks, and the old pig market became Zurich's smartest address.

The wrong guess

When Sprüngli moved his confectionery here, he is said to have thought the new railway station would be built right on the square. It ended up about a kilometre further north, but the shop did well anyway and is still there today.

The priciest square

On the Swiss Monopoly board, Paradeplatz is the most expensive square of all. Look under the tram canopy in our model: a little green house and a red hotel are hiding there.

Address
Paradeplatz, 8001 Zürich

Getting there
Paradeplatz is a stop for many tram lines; from the main station it is also a 10-minute walk down Bahnhofstrasse.

Tip
Stand on the tram island for a minute and watch the trams arrive from all directions, then walk on to the Fraumünster and St. Peter, both just a few minutes away.

Colours in this set

Sort your bricks into these colour groups before you start, one bowl each. Light and dark versions of a colour look alike under warm light: sort them in daylight. Every step names the colour of each part, plain name first, official name in brackets.

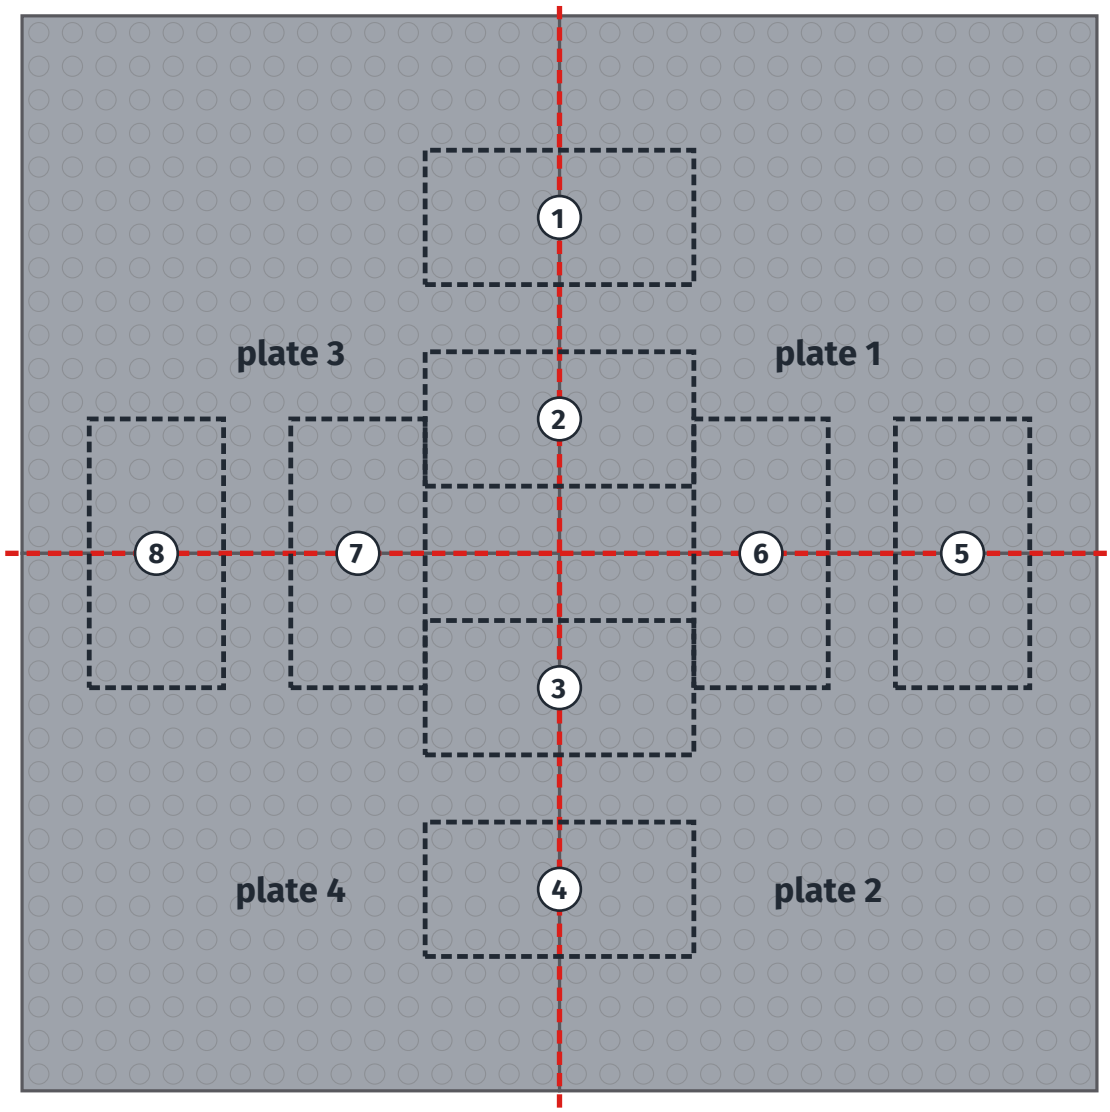
First: join the base plates

The base is 4 plates of 16 × 16 studs (Light grey (Light Bluish Grey)), 32 × 32 studs in all. In steps 1–2, lay the 8 black plates on the table, studs up, where the dashed outlines are. In step 3, press the base plates on top, edges flush: each plate below sits half under one base plate and half under the next, so the seam is locked along its length.



FRONT: this edge faces you in the step pictures. Red dashes: the seams.

Then: the display stand goes under the base

In steps 4–5, while the base is still flat and light, lift its front edge and press the 4 long black plates under it: half under the base, half sticking out in front, where the dashed outlines are. Then lift the back edge and press the 3 small black plates (the feet) under it. The model now stands level on its display stand; the strip and the nameplate go on top of the long plates next.

HIDDEN SUPPORT
This plate ties the tops of the two flag masts together, so neither can wobble.

Chapter 8 done

The model is finished. Well done!

Your nameplate

Print this page at 100 % (no “fit to page”), cut out a label along the grey line and stick it on the tan 2 × 8 nameplate of the display stand. Tip: sticker paper or a strip of clear tape on top makes it last.

The priciest square

Look under the tram canopy, on the kiosk roof: a little green house and a red hotel are hiding there.

Paradeplatz is the most expensive square on the Swiss Monopoly board.

Long before the banks arrived, this was the town's pig market, the Säumärt.
